

area

Berlin has become one of Europe's hippest cities - a point backed up by the fashion industries trendiest trade fair, Bread & Butter, which is held here (as well as in Barcelona). Traditionally Berlin's main shopping district has been based around the Kurfurstendamm in the old West. Here exclusive designer stores and high street chains (of which Görtz 17 is the best) rub shoulders with Europe's biggest department store Kaufhaus des Westens, affectionately known as KaDeWe. Since the wall came down, this area has been challenged by the arrival of new hip boutiques and smart malls in the revitalised East. Friedrich Strasse, Potsdamer Platz and the streets around Hackescher Markt are luring shoppers away from the more established areas. The latter area remains open late at night and is the place to find cool bars and restaurants.

getting around

Berlin is a large city, the best way to get around is by U-bahn or S-bahn.

opening hours

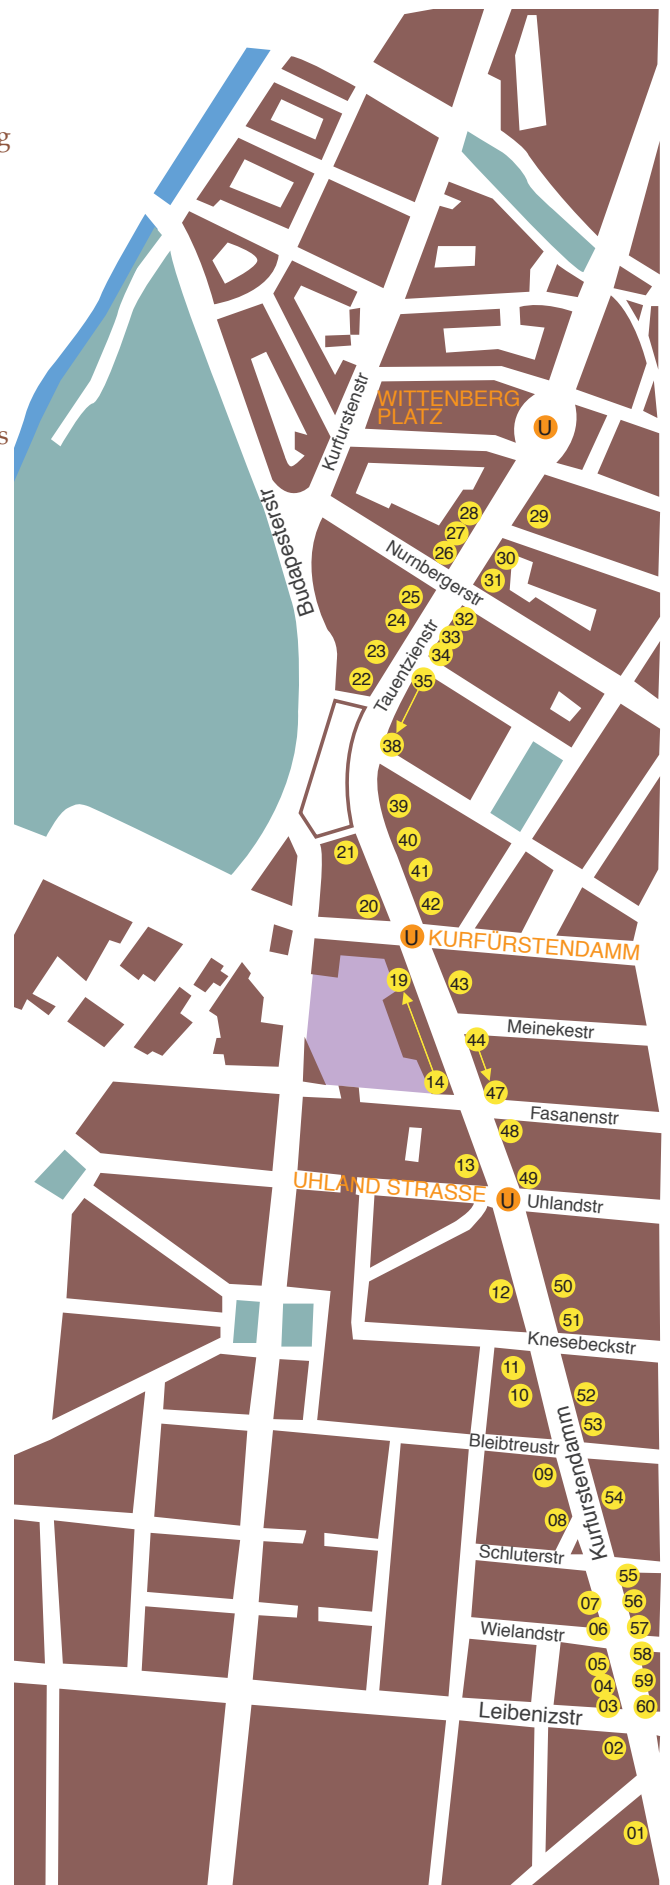

Monday to Friday 09:00 - 18:00 or 20:00.

Saturday 09:00 - 18:00 (some stores close at 16:00).

Closed Sunday.

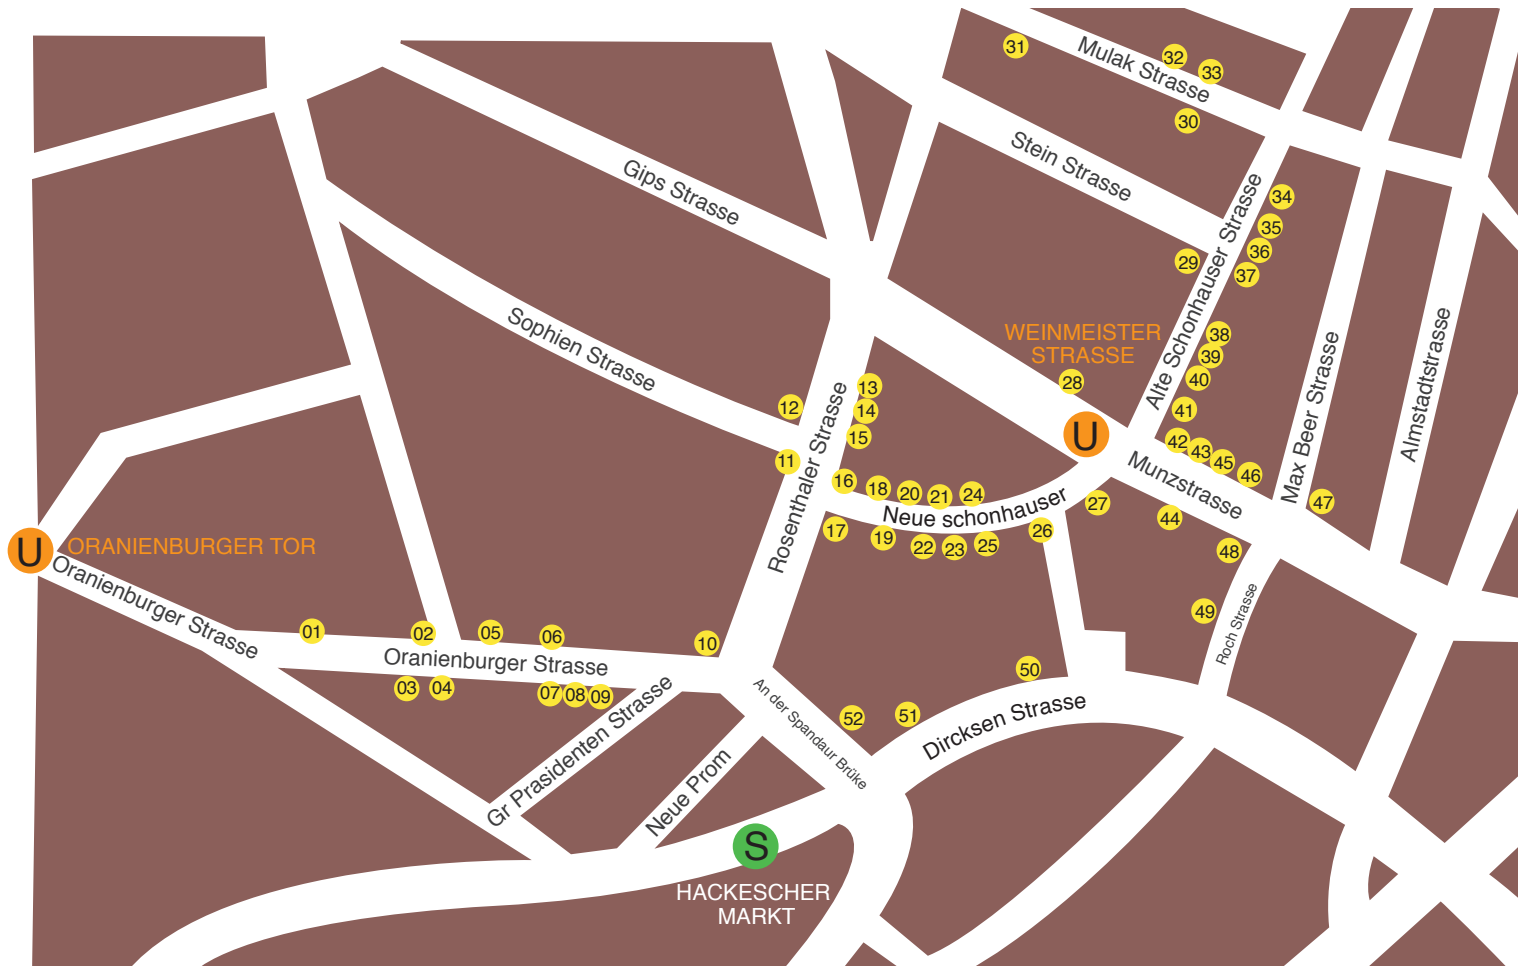

Boutiques around the Hackescher Markt open between 11:00 and 12:00 and close as late as 22:00.
